

The Compression Planning® Institute at

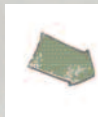

Compression Planning enables individuals to leverage their collaborative time, make better decisions faster, and get their people heading in the same direction. By cutting down the time it takes to plan for major projects and solve complex issues, company leaders can move faster to implement fresh solutions.

What it is

The Compression Planning Institute is designed to be a “learn-by-doing” seminar. You will bring a key business problem you want to solve, or opportunity you’d like to capture, and learn Compression Planning skills as you apply them to your particular issue.

What you’ll bring back

- Hands-on experience in designing and directing Compression Planning sessions using storyboards
- Confidence to lead your group through internal planning sessions, no matter what the issue
- The ability to be a neutral facilitator when dealing with complex (and often emotional) issues
- An opportunity to draw out creative and effective ideas from your peers, even the quiet ones

Compression Planning has helped individuals and organizations achieve amazing things:

- 300 volunteers mobilize into action to clean up a town after a devastating tornado. The mayor worries it will take at least six months to accomplish. With Compression Planning, disaster relief is completed in six days.
- A community group has been bogged down for two years, trying to develop a new program. After one 2-hour Compression Planning session, a new program is launched, and funding is in place.

- Actionable decisions made at least 30% faster
- Big tasks outlined in hours or days—not week, months or years
- Team accountability, responsibility and consensus

Compression Planning has equipped organizations of all shapes and sizes, from all over the world, with accelerated planning techniques to solve complex problems, challenges and tasks. Join the ranks. Register now.
